Comments/Suggestions:

The 2010 Rooftop Comedy Festival was a great example of a ZGreen event. The event took advantage of ZGreen's offer to do a staff and volunteer training, which helped make sure everyone working the event was on the same page. The only items that were given away were edible, which kept waste to a minimum. Thank you for printing the event schedules on 100% recycled paper, and also for not offering bottled water.

Opportunities for improvement:

There is room for improvement with regards to education. The ZGreen checklist for this event said there would be signs at the event to educate attendees about how the Rooftop Comedy Festival was green, but the auditor did not see any signs. In the future, we would be happy to print some signs for your use or provide language that can be included in the event guide or on the website.

To reduce waste even further, we recommend offering chips in bulk instead of in small bags. We recognize that Popchips was a sponsor, so that may not have been an option.

Thank you for your efforts to make Rooftop Comedy a ZGreen event. Please note that this report card will be made available to the public on our website. We look forward to working with the Wheeler Opera House again for future events.
